Market Report Example

The screenshot displays the Grand View Research website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the company logo, a search bar, and links for Reports, Services, About Us, and Insights. Below the navigation bar, a breadcrumb trail indicates the current page is 'Home > Select License Type'. The main content area features a report card for 'Nanomaterials Market Size, Share & Trends Analysis Report By Product (Gold, Silver, Iron, Copper), By Application (Aerospace, Automotive, Medical), By Region, And Segment Forecasts, 2021 - 2028'. Below the report card, a heading asks the user to 'Select a license type that suits your business needs'. Three license options are presented in a grid:

Select a license type that suits your business needs
Individual License US $5,950 Five thousand nine hundred fifty	Frequently purchased Team License US $6,950 Six thousand nine hundred fifty	Enterprise License US $8,950 Eight thousand nine hundred fifty

DOW JONES FACTIVA

hd=nanomaterials and (market* or forecast*) and (marketresearch or PR newswire or Grandview)

In the search box, “hd=” is for headline. Also note the asterisk symbol (*) is used.

Note: a “source type” is Wires – yet selecting from the drop-down Source Category entails several steps. One has to then add it to the search form box by selecting the blue triangle icon – and, typing the connector “and”

Next Steps

Altamirano is continuing this work at Auburn.

- Answered question about commercialization of a process
- Learned how Auburn's Business Librarian answers reference questions

Kenly

- Continuing this work and collaborating with another librarian
- Keeping up with new research areas
